Weather Discussion:

There is a low chance of showers today, with this chance gradually increasing from tonight into tomorrow as a shear-line moves down over the island chain. Cloudy conditions are forecast for Wednesday as instability approaches the island to affect Wednesday night.

Winds will blow generally from the east (E), veering to east south-east (ESE) on occasions at 15 km/h-30km/h. Seas are forecast to be smooth to moderate with swells ranging between 0.5m to 2.0m. There will be no haze intrusion during this forecast period.
